

New Membership Offering Through the American Productivity Quality Center

On August 30, 2018, Frankie Jackson and Jennifer Miller met with Mardi Krenek, the Vice President of Education with the American Productivity Quality Center (APQC), to discuss the APQC's new membership offerings. The APQC has lowered the cost of membership for education so it's now more cost effective. Information about the APQC's K-12 Education program is summarized on the right.

CyFair has had a long relationship with the AQPC. Under the new leadership of Mardi Krenek there is new level of energy. We look forward to working with the APQC in the future!

The APQC Education group helps education leaders plan, capture, scale and sustain transformation to improve student outcomes and organizational efficiency. We help educators redesign outdated or inefficient processes and break down functional silos which saves time, saves money, and empowers people. This work occurs through strategic planning, the understanding and implementation of Process and Performance Management (PPM) methodologies, and the learnings from best practices. The outcomes of these efforts speak for themselves: over $125 million in savings, tens of thousands of hours saved and reallocated to value added work, more collaborative engagement of employees, and efficient processes that support our shared goal of student achievement. Collectively, APQC and our education clients and members are known as the North Star Education Community.
