

Consortium of School Networking (CoSN) Smart Education Network by Design (SEND) Advisory Committee Wraps up 2015-2016

Frankie Jackson participated with the Consortium of School Networking (CoSN) Smart Education Network by Design (SEND) Advisory Committee on Friday, May 20, 2016 to wrap up action items from the 2015-2016 year, as shown in the following links. Frankie is proud to serve as 1 of 10 advisory members representing at the national level.

- Smart Education Network by Design \(SEND\) Comprehensive Design Overview as of May 2016
- Critical CTO Conversations: District Leadership as of May 2016
- SEND Infographic - Will Transformed Learning Break Your Network?
- Sample SEND Network and Infrastructure Conversation Presentation

Will Transformed Learning Break Your Network?

1 Megabit Per Second Per Student Internet Capacity

National Connectivity Goal for Schools by 2017

*Adopted by Federal Communication Commission July, 2014

Teachers/Administrators Add 30% More Required Capacity

CoSN
LEADING EDUCATION INNOVATION

A COSN BEST PRACTICES WHITE PAPER

Smart Networks: Comprehensive Design Overview
Guidelines for School System Leaders

Smart Education Networks by Design a CoSN leadership initiative

Critical CTO Conversations: District Leadership

Taking the digital leap means changing everything. Old organizational structures are no longer functional for new organizational needs. Traditional interfaces between departments are obsolete. And the role of IT becomes central to enabling teaching and learning.

The modern CTO should be having critical conversations both inside and outside of the organization in order to be effective in a dramatically evolving environment.

